Subject: Telephone Privacy

Gentlemen:

Indiana's telephone privacy law has dramatically reduced the number of unwanted phone calls to my house.

Before my phone number was registered on the Indiana Telephone Privacy List, I would receive at least one solicitous phone call every weekday, usually between 5 and 7 PM. Since the Telephone Privacy list, I can't remember receiving any unsolicited calls.

Once, I was even duped into giving my credit card number. I immediately contacted my bank and avoided several hundred dollars of bogus charges.

I urge the FCC to not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Sincerely,

Paul A. Zielinski
